

LEFT: The home above was one of three located in Troutman that were selected for the event. RIGHT: Dave Edwards, manager, and Jean Cable of Allen Tate Realty, in Mooresville, scrape the side of a home on Talley Street, in Troutman, to prepare it for a much needed coat of paint.

Realtors Care Day

Friday, over 600 volunteers and members of the Charlotte Regional Realtor Association fanned out in Mecklenburg and Iredell counties to assist homeowners with exterior home repairs that they otherwise could not afford. Realtors Care Day was an idea hatched by a Charlotte Realtor last year. The project was such a success that this year, over 33 homes in the Charlotte area, including seven located in Iredell County, were selected after being recommended for assistance by Habitat for Humanity. Realtors Care Day is gaining interest and organizers hope to take the event nationwide.

Photos by Bruce Matlock
 BMATLOCK@STATESVILLE.COM

Deborah Hernandez (left) of Reed Realty in Charlotte, helped Sheena Sutton and J.D. White of Coldwell Banker United in Mooresville, build a small deck where a crumbling rear porch used to be.

Chris Tese, an employee of Kennedy Enterprise in Mooresville, cuts metal for repairs to the siding and eaves of one of the homes.

Paul Mullin, an employee of Kennedy Enterprise, reglazes a window at one of the sites.

Realtors Care Day volunteers Francis Dawson (left) and Tony McMillian, of Prudential Carolinas Realtors in Huntersville, scrub down the siding of this Troutman home.

